Eatwells Café goes from strength to strength

The café in the Neighbourhood Centre is coming up to its 4th anniversary

EATWELLS Café, the community café for Barton in the Neighbourhood Centre, will soon have been opening its doors to the Barton community and beyond for four years. Donna Harvey, the new Training and Development Officer for the café, talked to Hands on News about the value of the café in the heart of the community, “It offers a friendly place where people can meet and get together. The food is freshly cooked every day. The staff are friendly and helpful and we have a team of trainees and volunteers that while they are learning help the café to run smoothly”.

Customers comment on how good the food is, and the prices are more than competitive with teas and coffees being just 60p and a main meal (including all day breakfast) starting at just over £3. The café has also started a take away service, “Dinners 2 Go”, so you can just phone in your order (01865 766293) place your order and pay on collection. The café is open Monday to Thursdays (9am to 2.30pm and Fridays 9am to 12pm) and is at Barton Neighbourhood Centre Underhill Circus. New volunteers are always welcome.

The joys of volunteering and other community activities!

By Pauline James

FOR many work is a necessity for financial reasons and for others social contact, either way it can take over our lives, leaving little, if any time for anything else. But what do you do when you either retire, are made redundant or simply are unable to find employment?

There is a danger that you can become disheartened, apathetic, even sink into depression, but there is a whole world out there needing your skills (everybody has them) whatever they may be.

Volunteering is a great way of meeting new people and by doing this valuable work you are helping not only individual people but also the community, a real feel good factor!

There are many opportunities to volunteer in Barton and Oxford generally. You can contact Barton Community Association on 761987 or Oxfordshire and Community Voluntary Action on 251946 to find out more.

Enrych formerly Ryder Cheshire Volunteer services desperately needs more volunteers to enable people with a physical disability to enjoy their lives and realise their potential, and that person could be you! If you think you could help then the e-mail is: Theresa.wright@rcv.org.uk or tel: 07968 350 587.

Then there are day/evening classes. There are courses that run locally (contact the Community Association again on 761987 for information) and the local library will have information on courses in Headington and elsewhere.

Joining a club is another great way of meeting new people. The W.I. plays host to different activities and has organised trips all for a very modest fee.

If you belong to a church then perhaps visiting the sick both in hospital and care homes in the church's parish. Ever thought of ringing church bells (you don't have to be a church member)? This can be great fun and again a great way to meet new people and socialise with a drink in the local!

There are so many opportunities out there waiting for you! No need to rest on your laurels so to speak, so get out there and enjoy life!

THE POWER OF LEARNING Barton resident gets the learning bug, maybe you will too!

MICHELLE Trafford had been away from learning and work for 15 years, bringing up a family. In that time Michelle feels that both the world of education and work have changed greatly.

“When you have not worked for a long time you can feel overwhelmed by the change since you were at school. It also becomes harder to help your children with their school work; it’s all changed so much”

A few months ago Michelle decided to try an IT computer course, one of the free short courses that are now available in Barton that was running at the Neighbourhood Centre. She was almost surprised how well she did in the course, and it became a starting point to take up further learning.

Michelle discovered she had a real flair for computer and design work, “I’m now at Oxford and Cherwell Valley College studying “ITQ” level 2 computers. I am really enjoying it and I plan to take my computer skills further. I’m keen to go into more specific areas like web design and publisher”.

Michelle has also become a Community Champion and is helping to develop more courses in Barton and encouraging others to become involved in learning. Michelle would recommend others to give learning a try and take up one of the local free courses.

“You realise that you have a lot more skills than you thought...it also helps your confidence greatly It’s well worth giving it a try.”

Barton is a great place to learn!

- A free driving theory course will be starting in June (see the flyer on this page)
- A community champion course, for those who are interested in being involved in the community and /or volunteering. This is a fun interesting course that will help you to gain more skills and confidence to be involved.

Starting Wednesday 27 June, 10am to 1pm and on the following three Wednesdays. Free and open to all with free refreshments and lunch! At the Neighbourhood Centre

- A “Bridging Course” for anyone interested in going onto further or higher education, including guided trips to Ruskin, Oxford and Cherwell Valley College and Brookes. INDIA CALLING Hands on News journalist Nicci Sawhney recently went to India to visit family. She reports on a land of contrast.

“WE TRAVEL to India around every eighteen months and yet I am ceaselessly amazed by the roads. The sheer weight of traffic is astounding; three lanes marked onto the tarmac are consumed by at least five vehicles packed mirror-to-mirror.

When traffic is bad or we know that parking for the car will be scarce, we take a rickshaw (imagine a horse and trap that’s led by bicycle). One lean man expected to pedal two adults and two children along main roads – no cycle paths here – dodging larger, faster vehicles and copious potholes; for a nominal fee. Our fifteen minute journey in a rickshaw costs us only Rs. 50 (about 45p). These men ranging from young to shockingly elderly, usually don’t own their rickshaws but hire them daily for around Rs. 200 (about £1.50). So after renting the rickshaw and feeding his family our Rickshaw ‘walla’ who is in his 20s, hopes to save enough to one day have his own auto.

The rickshaw walla with the children

Poverty is rife in India, driving and walking through the streets of New Delhi affords me the view of small shacks built by the side of the road, where while the adults work at breaking rocks for money, their children bathe in full view of the public.

In stark contrast to this is the wealth: the wealthy afford good private health care and schools and the streets bulge with row upon row of designer boutiques show casing traditional clothing detailed with real gold. Whole markets specialising in silver, gold, diamonds invite you into browse; to buy. There are lavish wedding celebrations that can last for days.

But put the rich/poor divide to one side and what do you find? A city that’s awash with life and colour, that’s bursting at the seams with festivals, temples and churches of every kind; so many varieties of food that you could go mad just deciding what to eat next. And people, many, many people who are extremely hospitable and seem innately confident as I watch the women haggle over vegetables in the market; as they navigate the dangerous roads with ease; as their children bathe in the street.

I will always feel foreign here and I’m glad of it, what a travesty it would be to ever take such a place for granted?

We return home, feeling the cold of England now. Back to Barton where I am not foreign. I open our front door to our own smell mixed with three weeks of settled dust – just as welcome, if in need of the attention of a duster.”

YOU may have noticed that the Barton Surgery has undergone refurbishment. This is an exciting time of change and improvement for both patients and staff. The refurbishment included redecoration, new seating, new carpets throughout, and upgrading of fixtures and equipment in the consulting rooms.

Opening times have been extended, and the surgery is now open Monday to Thursday 8.30am – 6.00pm and Fridays 8.30am – 5.00pm, closing for lunch between 1pm – 2pm. On a Wednesday the surgery is closed between 12.30 – 2pm. The doctor sessions have also increased from 4 to 5 sessions per week, and nurses are available on Mondays and Wednesdays.

The Listening Centre (TLC)
The Listening Centre holds a weekly affordable counselling service at Barton Surgery, on Friday mornings between 9.30am - 12.30pm.

and what they do stops them enjoying their life and relationships. This is often a result of family problems, break up with a partner, death of someone close, change or loss of job, change or loss of health, lack of confidence and stress or depression. A counsellor can help you understand your feelings and reactions to things in your life better, and how you might change the things that are not working for you. If you want to find out more or make an appointment: ring TLC on 01865 794794 and leave a message. Somebody will phone you back and ask about what you are looking for and offer you an appointment.

Alternatively for more information about the TLC and what they offer please see their leaflets – available in the waiting room or visit their website <http://www.thelisteningcentre.org.uk/>

If you usually attend the Barton Surgery, you are naturally also entitled to use all the services at the main surgery at Bury Knowle Health Centre, 207 London Road, Tel: 01865 761651 – those include some more specialist services such as minor surgery, coil fitting, ECGs, and counselling.
